

ABOUT US

DFI Forensics Supports You When It Matters Most

DFI Forensics is a Vancouver-based digital forensics and cyberattack response firm founded in 2018 by former litigation lawyer, Tyler Hatch.

We analyze digital evidence and devices to get litigation lawyers the best evidence for court. When facts matter, trust the digital evidence.

We assist businesses and organizations hit with a cyber attack to determine what happened, what data stolen and ensure the attacker is out of your network.

OUR EXPERTISE

Digital Forensics For Today's Litigation Lawyer

DFI Forensics is led by a former litigation lawyer and our team of highly skilled digital forensics experts has a wealth of experience with many litigation cases.

Digital forensics services is the field of forensic science that seeks to determine the facts surrounding an occurrence or event (such as employee data theft, for example) through the collection and examination of digital evidence from a variety of computer, digital and electronic sources.

Strict evidence collection and analysis protocols are followed to ensure that our findings of fact are verifiable and admissible in Court.

We get results and prepare clearly worded, succinct written reports so that lawyers, their clients and the Court can understand what we uncovered and what it means in plain language.
